A/N: I fucked up in my other fic where I forgot I already posted it in my collaboration account (Commander-Bookworm). Sorry about that and to the anon reviewer who pointed it out, wew! thank you very much! :D I'm storing my fics from Tumblr to here since not everyone has tumblr accounts. So again I apologize for that shameful act.

Fleur and Hermione are roommates and Fleur has a major crush on Hermione. To the point that she's slowly falling for the brunette. So one day, after working on her college thesis, Hermione came back to their dorm room, looking like she just got an F in a subject.

"Bonjou-"

Hermione rushed to Fleur and pulled the french girl's chair a bit to the side. "Fleur! Can I use your laptop? The boys took mine and won't give it back. Thanks!"

Fleur nodded in response. She would do anything for Hermione. If the brunette tell her to go back to France just to get an authentic French bread, she will book the earliest flight to France and get it for her. Or if Hermione would need help about a subject and she's busy with her thesis, she'll stop doing her thesis and help the brunette.

Yes, Fleur Delacour will do anything for Hermione.

That is until she realized one small thing about Hermione's request.

Her laptop and -currently open- Iphone was on the table and the wallpaper of both devices...

"Fleur... Why is our photo your wallpaper? And my photo your phone wallpaper?" Hermione asked, pointing at the said items on the table.

"Merde!" Fleur gathered her things while trying to explain what Hermione saw. But all words she spoke came out french and knowing her brunette roommate not understanding her mother tongue, her explanation was useless.

Hermione was about to calm Fleur down and tell the blonde something about the picture when Ron and Harry barged in their room.

"Hey 'mione! Can you give us the password to your laptop? Harry said it was 'fleurmione' but when I typed it, it says access denied!" Ron said.

Fleur, hearing what Ron said, stopped her rush movements and turned to Ron then to Hermione who has a knowing smile on her face.

"FleurMione with a capital F and M." Hermione explained.

Harry nodded and led Ron out of the girl's dorm room. "Told you there are some uppercasse in there."

With the two boys no longer in the room, Hermione turned to Fleur who looked shocked and happy at the same time. "So anyway, about the wallpapers. I asked because I want to have a copy of it and put it in my phone."

Fleur can only nod and place back her things on the table and set up the device to transfer the image to Hermione's phone.
